Peanut Butter

Peanut butter is a creamy or crunchy spread made from ground, roasted peanuts, often sweetened and flavored with salt, sugar, or oil. It is a popular snack and versatile ingredient, commonly used in sandwiches, baked goods, smoothies, and sauces. Peanut butter is known for its rich, nutty taste and smooth texture, making it a favorite in both savory and sweet dishes. Packed with protein, healthy fats, and essential vitamins, it's a nutritious option for a quick energy boost. Available in various varieties, including natural, unsweetened, or flavored, peanut butter is a pantry staple in many homes and a beloved treat worldwide.

Private Label Process

The following steps illustrate the process of going towards your own private label. This is a general process, deviation from this process is always possible. Please contact us for more information.

Application

A request for private label from the client. We then provide with more specific information on products, package, minimum order quantity and lead time. We also offer our clients the flexibility of loading one or more product variants in a container.

Sample Approval

After receiving all the necessary information samples are forwarded to the client with different recipes, product specifications and package size for approval. Further custom formulations available to meet specific needs

Artwork

When all the products elements (recipe & package) are approved, client is then requested to forward the label and outer case artwork in CDR or AI format file. Moreover we provide suggestions to the client on developing the artwork

Production

After the artwork is approved, the first production will take place. The production will be accompanied by multiple qualified employees to assure the end result meets the client's standards.

Traceability

Our quality management system ensures the perfect product traceability from raw material / packing material receipt through the finished product dispatch.

Logistics

We offer various delivery options to the clients. However the clients can also arrange their own logistics process.
